Project Explanation:

Jefferson County Hospital, located in Waurika, OK, is a critical access hospital that serves rural southwest Oklahoma and provides key services in emergency medicine, primary care, and outpatient diagnostic testing. The hospital is undergoing a decade-long renovation that will upgrade and improve this 50-year-old facility through multiple phases.

Phase 3 of the renovation will expand the hospital's laboratory and allow its computed tomography unit, which is currently in an adjacent modular building, to be brought inside the hospital building. Phase 3 will also add a fourth emergency exam room and expand the pharmacy med room, registration, and family waiting area.

This renovation will allow for improved patient treatment, greater staffing efficiencies, and improved patient safety for this very rural area of Oklahoma. It will also allow the hospital to have four emergency rooms with negative pressure rooms needed for treatment of respiratory viruses, such as SARS-CoV-2.
